Chicago Latina Playwright, Diana Mucci, brings back her comedy about dating, love and sex in the Midwest Premiere of Come 'n Go. Opens September 7th, 2018 at The Factory Theater.

IMMEDIATE RELEASE: August 15th, 2018 – Chicago, IL. WHAT: The Aleatoric Theatre Company and Back of the Yards Entertainment announces the Midwest Premiere Production of the laugh-out-loud comedy, Come 'n Go.

Based on a true story, Come 'n Go is a captivating play about two sisters trying to navigate their love lives in a world of dating apps, social media and non-stop texting. Set in a bar, they meet a group of single men who give them a glimpse of what men really think about dating, love and sex. This inspires the older sister to write a book about single men – one that she hopes could save her marriage and her sister's broken heart. What the women discover on this hilarious and heartfelt journey forces them to confront the truth about themselves. Laugh-out-loud funny, it's the perfect date night or girls' night out!

WHO: Born and raised in Chicago's Back of the Yards neighborhood, Diana Mucci is a Latina playwright, poet, storyteller and actress. She has written, published and/or produced plays, short stories, short films, children's books, poems, TV commercials, and an awarding-winning indie film. Her new comedy, Come 'n Go is a revival of her first play, I'm a Female. . . Seeking a Male, which premiered in 2005. It was a box office hit and recommended by the Chicago Sun-Times and ChicagoCritic.com. Diana is currently working a new play about growing up with racism in Chicago.
